

2007 Comparative & Experimental Research Symposium Awards*

Top-Tier Prizes

Dr. Ferenc Tóth, Department of Large Animal Clinical Sciences

“Effects of an Intravenous Endotoxin Challenge on Glucose and Insulin Dynamics in Mares”

Beth Wilson, Department of Nutrition

“The Effect of Calcium and Dairy in Weight Loss and Body Composition”

Second-Tier Prizes

Amanda Peretich, Department of Large Animal Clinical Sciences

“Hormonal regulation of Atp10c, a Type 4 P-type ATPase, in Mouse Adipocytes”

Mugdha Sukhthankar, Department of Pathobiology

“Green Tea Catechins Suppress Basic Fibroblast Growth Factor in vitro and in vivo”

Pranita Sarangi, Department of Microbiology

“IL-10 and Natural Regulatory T Cells: Two Independent Anti-Inflammatory Mechanisms in HSV-Induced Ocular Immunopathology”

Dr. Angela Lusby, Department of Small Animal Clinical Sciences

“Validation of an Elisa Assay for Measuring Serum Adiponectin in Felids”

*Please note: The 2007 symposium was open only to graduate students in the Comparative & Experimental Medicine Graduate Studies Program.